About the Conference

Tech, AI, and data science are at the center of conversations around equity, policy, and economic inclusion. In board rooms, in legislative chambers, and at kitchen tables, there is a growing understanding of the importance of data and how it can be leveraged to tackle some of society's most urgent challenges.

This presents the field of data for social impact with an important opportunity. We must seize this moment and bring together the world's most visionary voices to develop community-designed, evidence-informed solutions that will accelerate the strategic growth of our sector.

We invite you to be a part of this effort at Accelerate: The Data for Social Impact Conference, an exciting new convening hosted by data.org and the Harvard Data Science Initiative (HDSI).

This day-long event on Thursday, June 6, 2024, will feature academic institutions, social impact organizations, and industry partners around the globe for a series of thought-provoking keynotes, expert-led panels, and collaborative sessions as we work together to fuel meaningful and sustainable change through data and innovation.

SPONSORSHIP GUIDELINES

data.org reserves the right to decline any sponsorship submission. Please note that preferred sponsorship placements will align with one of our core data for social impact (DSI) themes: climate, public health, financial inclusion, data equity, gender data, capacity building, digital public goods, and artificial intelligence (AI). We will not accept sponsorships that are lobbying or politically-oriented in nature, or that explicitly sell a product to our audience. The guidelines outlined below will be used in the selection and management of the sponsorship packages:

- The content of an event, including decisions about speakers or panelists, will be determined solely by the data.org and Harvard Data Science Initiative teams.
- Accelerate Conference sponsors will not receive special access to Harvard students, faculty, data.org staff, or resources.
- The showcase tables provide sponsors with the opportunity to connect with attendees, share stories of impact, and extend their brand awareness within the emerging field of data for social impact. Sponsors are prohibited from directly selling products or services to conference attendees.
- Sponsor logos will be included on the Accelerate Conference website and on signage materials as outlined in the sponsorship packages. Sponsor's slogans or taglines may not appear as part of the logo or acknowledgment.
- Sponsor logo placement, size, and layouts will be determined by data.org.
- *Mentions on X (Twitter) will be dependent on the platform's status in April–June 2024. If data.org is no longer active on X (Twitter), data.org will arrange for the thank you to be posted on a different social media channel, such as a Meta platform or LinkedIn.
- All sponsorship opportunities will be contracted, and must be approved by both Lindsey Gottschalk, director of partnerships, and the data.org Senior Leadership Team.

ABOUT DATA.ORG

data.org is accelerating the power of data to solve some of our greatest global challenges. Launched in 2020 by the Mastercard Center for Inclusive Growth and The Rockefeller Foundation, data.org serves as a platform for partnerships to build the field of data for social impact by widening access to the tools, resources, and talent needed to make sustainable and equitable change.

A global organization, data.org convenes and coordinates across sectors and is committed to supporting and amplifying visionary – but also practical – solutions to drive greater impact, through data.

ABOUT THE HARVARD DATA SCIENCE INITIATIVE (HDSI)

The Harvard Data Science Initiative (HDSI) represents Harvard's commitment to shaping the new science of data. It illuminates the new interdisciplinary pathways that our faculty, students, and partners will use to solve real problems, in a world with critical ethical challenges regarding facts, data, and truth.
